NORFOLK SOCIETY.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
NORFOLK, VA., June 17.—Society is generally supreme and independent, It is composed mostly of women, or, at least, the women are the principals and the managers, while men are mere accessories and supernu-heraries, useful for filling in the bare and unoccupied places. Still, where there is any great and engrossing public event, society feels the effects of it and becomes dull from a diversion of attention. Society is not supreme and independent, for instance, that an absorbing political campaign can go on here without distracting the attention of some of its members, and thus preventhere without distracting the method of some of its members, and thus preventing that absolute and undisputed, but gentle and agreeable, domination which society exercises over its members. That has been the case here this week.

society exercises over its members. That has been the case here this week. There was a campaigh for the city offices and two days of election. The men were all more or less interested and occupied with the political affairs of the city, and the women could not deny a mild appreciation even if they were not directly soncerned in the ambitions or the expectations of one or several of the candidates. Hence there have not been many great social events this week. Society graciously yielded to politics. Politics was the absorbing topic of the week. Mrs. D. F. Watt cutertained her friends Tuesday morning at her home, on North Park Avenue. The occasion was a luncheon served on the card tables, after which progressive cuchre was played, Mrs. Frederick Stohl was awarded the first prize, a nut bowl, and Mrs. George L. Currier received a fan as a prize for winning the greatest number of lone hands, while the consolation, a plate, was
